foreword

THIS '48-'49 "KALENDS" is the last yearbook to be published before the turn of a new half-century. On its pages will be pictured the events of our school life this year, events especially dear to those of us leaving D. A. this year.

We hope that this "KALENDS" will serve as a clear mirror to the past, so that those who leaf through its pages in the years to come will remember the classes, games, and activities of this important year.

With this "KALENDS" we wish to record this year, which, in our climb from Kindergarten to Senior year, has left its footprint on so many of our lives.

EDWARD SHALKEY

To you, Edward Shalkey, we dedicate this 1949 KALENDS in appreciation for all you have done for Delaware Academy. Because of your untiring efforts, and the unselfish giving of your time, our football, basketball, and baseball teams have taken their place among the best. You have formed clubs so that younger students would become interested and better equipped to play on varsity teams. Some games have been tough, but always, under your leadership, our boys have come up fighting. We, the students of D. A., feel this is one way in which we can say "THANK YOU" for all your contributions to our school life.

alma mater

I

Just above our dear old campus,
With its trees so tall,
Stands our noble Alma Mater,
Glorious to all.

Chorus

Lift your voices, Seniors, Juniors,
Sophomores, Freshmen, too;
To our dear old Alma Mater
Ever be ye true.

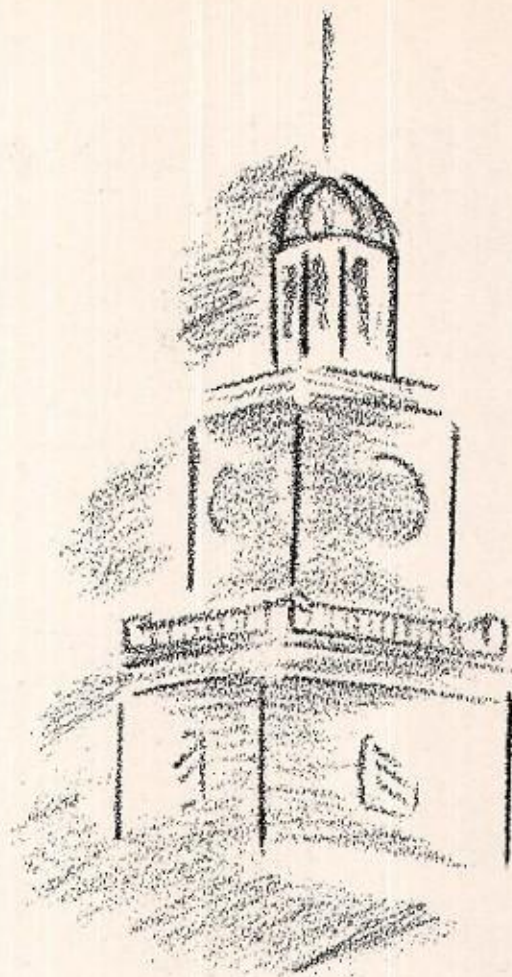

II

In athletic games and contests,
Tho' we win or lose,
Still to cheer for Alma Mater,
We will ne'er refuse.

III

Tho' our hair may turn to silver
And our steps grow slow,
Back to dear Old Alma Mater
Oft our thoughts will go.

greetings from our principal

mr. r. r. de gelleke

THE graduates of the class of 1949 are to be congratulated upon the successful completion of their high school career and the earning of the diploma of this institution.

I sincerely hope you have profited by your educational experiences in school and I know you will always remember the various activities in which you participated. As the years roll on, the memories will become more dear to you. The years you spent in high school will be cherished as probably the most enjoyable of your life.

As you separate and take up your choice of work or college, please remember that we are following your progress with interest. It will be a pleasure if we can be of further service to you, and we hope you occasionally will return for a visit to our school.

class history

IN 1945 a new class presented itself in the Senior High School section of Delaware Academy. As was easily understandable, the footsteps of the class were meek and timid. Under the leadership of Jane Dayton, the class president, the Freshmen began adapting themselves to the customs and traditions which their predecessors had established. Other class officers that year were Robert MacDonald, Vice-President; Virginia Martin, Secretary; and Lauren Monroe, Treasurer. The Student Council representative chosen by the class was Mary Klukkert, and her alternate was Robert MacDonald.

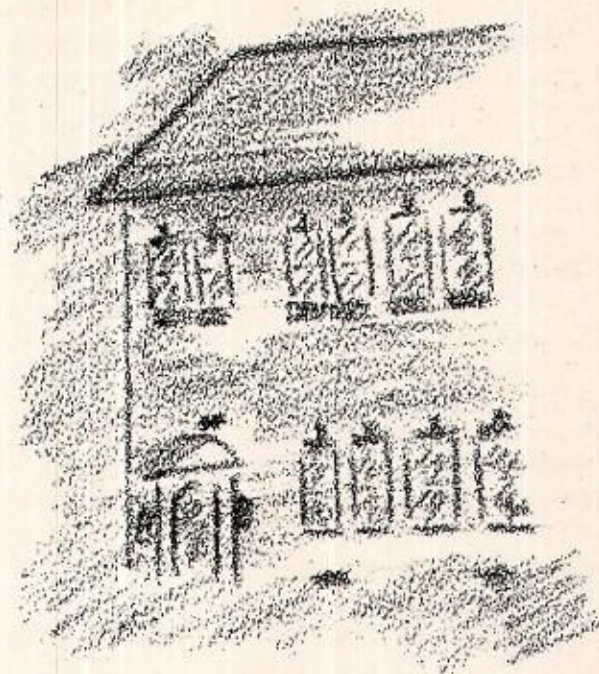

In 1946-47 the class began to show "what it was made of." The footsteps of the class were becoming stronger and surer, and certain members of the class were beginning to stand out above the rest. In the high school contest for the best Christmas short story, the Sophomores captured two prizes. Mary Klukkert received first prize, and Valerie Mabon second. In athletics, Dolores Cooper was chosen to be on the Girls' Varsity Basketball team. During this year, Virginia Martin was the class president, and she was assisted by Vice-President Robert Davis, Secretary, Patricia Goodnough, and Treasurer, Roland Rabeler. The representative from the Sophomore class on the Student Council was Lauren Monroe. Barbara Lee was his alternate.

By the time the class reached its junior year, it had not only followed in the footsteps of past D. A.'ers, but had also branched out and made new paths. The Student Council representative was Lauren Monroe, and with Frances McRedmond as class president, Robert Davis as vice-president, Mary Klukkert as secretary, and Roland Rabeler as treasurer, the class really got down to work. The first money-making project they had was to sell candy during the lunch periods. Then when football started, they moved their field of action outdoors and sold pop, potato chips, popcorn, and candied apples at the home games. The first really big affair sponsored by the class was the Junior Banquet. It was given in the form of a Christmas Banquet, and the entertainment and decorations were planned accordingly. After the entertainment Robert MacDonald auctioned off the "leftovers." Two members of the class were selected to Quill and Scroll, the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists. They were Barbara Bell and Virginia Martin. In the spring, May 14, to be exact, the Juniors produced their play, "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring. Both Mrs. Clarkson and the cast worked hard on it, and it turned out to be a great success. Around that time Edward Engelhard was chosen from the class to go to Boys' State, and institution which was held that year at Colgate University during our Commencement Week. One of the biggest thrills of the whole year came the week the class rings arrived. In the Spring, Honor Society assembly the Juniors tapped were Lauren Monore, Roland Rabeler, Mary Klukkert, Virginia Martin, and Edward Engelhard. In the literary field Virginia Martin was chosen to be editor of the 1949 "Kalends," and Phyllis Dann, editor of the "Mountain-Ear." As the next year's president of the Student Council had to be elected from the junior class, the Juniors got together and began naming possibilities for the job. Finally the race was narrowed down to Frances McRedmond and Edward Engelhard. A war-like campaign was waged, and the outcome was announced on Moving-up Day. The winner--Edward Engelhard. To wind up the year, the Juniors put on the annual Junior Prom. The class selected Robert MacDonald to be King and Frances McRedmond, Queen. Thus ended a year which was beneficial to both the class and to their treasury.

When the class reached its senior year, the footsteps were strong and had a triumphant sound to them. The class officers were: President, Lauren Monroe; Vice-President, Roland Rabeler; Secretary, Betty Dutcher; Treasurer, Robert Davis, and the class representatives on the Student Council were Betty Dutcher and Frances McRedmond. In the Honor Society, Roland Rabeler was elected President; Lauren Monroe, Vice-President; Virginia Martin, Secretary; and Edward Engelhard, Treasurer. At the fall Honor Society assembly, Barbara Lee, Frances McRedmond, and Valerie Mabon were tapped. Under the direction of Miss Hartman, the senior play, "Dear Ruth", a hilarious comedy by Norman Krasna, starring Dorothy Reigler and Edward Engelhard, was a tremendous success and added a great deal to that ever-growing class treasury. Another way the class made money was by selling candy bars at the home basketball games. The Senior Ball, too, turned out to be a great success. We finally accumulated enough money in the treasury so that we could go on our class trip, and we'll never forget it, even though we did return "foot-sore and weary." On Moving-up Day, we all felt rather strange as we walked into and out of the auditorium for the last time. As this class leaves the school, its footprints will remain in the Academy forever, and they will serve as a guide to future classes.

September

Ed Engelhard rang the bell
While we scrambled up the hill pell mell.
Students numbered 803
The teachers felt lost in a sea.

October

Ate at the Junior Banquet and got fat.
New Cain Raisers running this way and that
Our cheering made quite a din
When the team blew up the pigskin.

November

All angels we on Parents' Night
Then the Sophomore Hop where you held her tight.
Began to study for tests the next day.
But took time out for the Senior Play.

December

Vesper night and Christmas vacation.
We bundled up to the point of suffocation.
Hoped for it to keep snowing
that way.
Maybe no school for a day.

January

Starting of the new year right (?)
Doing those regents and wishing you were bright.
My didn't school go fast!
Half the year was already past.

February

Plenty of "April Fool's" were heard in the hall.
That imp cupid got us all.
To get a lacy card was just the thing.
It might as well have been spring.

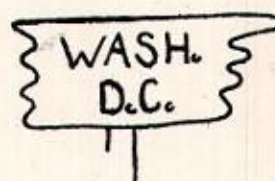

March

Delhi was still in "deep freeze"
When it was time for the March
"breeze."
Our gals and guys were some of the best,
When their public speaking was put to the test.

April

The Senior Ball was a sensation.
So were we at the gym demonstration.
The Seniors embarked on their journey one day
To a big, wide city far away.

May

Ala, when spring finally got here.
Every young buck found his dear.
Don't forget the athletic banquet and the Junior Play.
Seems like there was something going on every day.

June

Here were the seniors' days to shine.
All those class picnics were just fine.
But who cares. Whoopee!
Not a bit, now that we're free.
